Clarendon Hill Public Housing Project reconstruction HRP approved

After going through all the details with a fine tooth comb, the Somerville Board of Aldermen approved the controversial Home Rule Petition for the Clarendon Hill Project.

By Jim Clark

The Somerville Board of Aldermen's Legislative Matters Committee of the Whole met last Thursday, May 31, to discuss and take action in regards to the reconstruction of the Clarendon Hill housing project.

The first order of business concerned the Director of SPCD advising the Board on any conditions to be imposed on the developers of the Clarendon Hill housing project regarding property ownership and land use, relocation of tenants, local and state approvals, financing and construction, occupancy requirements, and project design.

Ward 7 Alderman and Board President Katjana Ballantyne explained that the project was viewed as one single development to protect the affordable units as a group. The letter with conditions of award for the $10

Nibble Kitchen fundraiser dishes out Brazilian brunch

By Shira Laucharoen

Blending together a medley of flavors, the upcoming Nibble Kitchen served up a delectable variety of Brazilian street food for brunch at its fundraiser on June 2, held at Foundation Kitchen. With a distinctive meal designed by chef Robson Lemos, the event will help finance the opening of Nibble Kitchen in Union Square's Bow Market by the end of summer.

Lemos, a member of the Nibble Entrepreneurship Program (NEP), said that his passion for cooking originated in his awareness of the kitchen as a communal space that brings people together. He was drawn to the culinary arts as an expression of history and culture, inspired by all aspects of the creative experience.

"Every kind of food has its own identity, and I love that, that it connects with music, color, and flavor," said Lemos. "I love the food presentation; we drink pink lemonade because it is pink! Of course, we need to have

So far, the fireworks haven't been cancelled. Let's hope whoever is in charge of the event here in the city that it takes place this year, and on time. But how many want to bet that the July 4 city fireworks – which are not even done on July 4 – will be canceled? What will be the excuse? Maybe it's too hot? You fill in the blanks! What is going on? Has it really become a "cup-cake administration"?

We hear that the Sunsetters, which was revived by the Curtatone Administration years ago, is completely cancelled this year. That's too bad for those talented kids and neighbors that enjoyed the shows in the various neighborhoods. People are wondering what is going on and why this happened? Since all these events are being cancelled, for what some say is no reason at all, maybe some of the recent taxes and fees that the aldermen and mayor have passed will be cancelled. Or maybe not.
So far this year, the January 1 flag ceremony was cancelled (well, until March, when it was warmer), then the Paul Revere ride (never rescheduled), then the Memorial Day Parade and now the Sunsetters. Is it budget cuts? Or maybe we've become less patriotic, as some are saying?

Response to: Unable to park in driveway, ready to kill

Steve Keenan says:

The police officer involved in this matter did a good job. He gave the arrested person a chance to explain the situation, calm down, and go back into his house without being arrested. But this man brought it on himself. He was arrested because of his conduct and threats to kill people. Kudos to this officer for his professional actions and concern for public safety. People don't realize how hard and dangerous police work is.

#snapped says:

Maybe he snapped after living for years in a construction zone. The city doesn't realize what an inconvenience that is to people, especially families and elderly. The people on Cedar Street and Cedar Ave. have lived with many many inconveniences for years now. The work seems to be progressing very slowly, sometimes hardly at all.

Neighbor says:

God knows no one can win here. if they didn't fix the street and the pipes people would be complaining, when they do fix stuff people complain.

Resident says:

I just think the city should give residents a heads up when construction is going to be done on their street, or at least the houses closest to, or in, the construction area, should be notified so that it doesn't come as a shocking inconvenience out of nowhere

Retired officer 96 says:

I am appalled at the conduct of this man saying those vile thing to those construction workers.
I happen to know those men and they are very good workers and I also know the owner of that company and he is a very good owner, he hires nothing but the best. The officer involved while on assignment there, I Know him, he is a tremendous officer and a great asset of the S.P.D.. Being on these assignments is never easy, and running into this bigot/homophobic/assaulter just makes it more difficult. Also, once again it proves that officers on assignment at no cost to the city provide added safety and security to those law abiding citizens of Somerville.

Neighbor says:

Resident. I have received calls, emails and Facebook posts on the Lowell street work that is going on. If you have not heard about work going on in your neighborhood, you are not listening or have chosen to to be notified... This is besides the point, no one deserves to be accosted like the folks who were just doing their job.

Response to: City passes Home Rule Petition for real estate transfer fee

Theo Nash says:

What we now need is a home rule petition that does not allow the implementation of any additional fees unless approved by the voters directly.

LindaS says:

Does anyone really believe that we have any final say in any fee implementation in this city?
I don't remember in my entire life here of any time that a fee was not ultimately imposed because residents protested it. Let's be realistic here. If they want to add a fee, they will add it. Yes, they will listen to us, they will humor us and they will say they'll consider our opinions, and then they'll go ahead and implement the fee anyway. Why do you think they don't put any of these to a vote?
Because they know they have a better chance of not getting a fee implemented if we have any say in the matter. Also the reason they never put their raises to a vote.

Controversial ZBA ruling under scrutiny

By Henry Lin-David

A Zoning Board of Appeals (ZBA) meeting is being held to discuss the the ongoing construction on 130 Walnut Street. Opponents say that the ZBA’s decision regarding the property indicates favoritism for developers over the community.

During the fall, the owner of the property, Garrett Realty LLC, applied for a special building permit for construction plans. Following neighborhood backlash, Garrett Real ty withdrew that application, but submitted a new set of plans in the winter in an attempt to eliminate the need for a special permit. The “by-right” proposal was approved by the ZBA in late February.

However, an appeal against the project was filed in the winter by Justin Rank, a resident of Walnut Street, along with a petition signed by thirty-eight neighbors. Rank says that the ZBA has displayed undue amount of leniency towards the developers and argues that the plans include several major renovations that qualify as “substantial demolition” under the Demolition Review Ordinance, and therefore warrant a review by the Historic Preservation Commission. In particular, he points to the new roofline resulting from the construction.

Additionally, Rank contends that the building exceeds the three-story limit due to the height of the basement ceiling. In order for a basement not to be counted as a story, it must extend over the finished grade of the land by no more than five feet. The structure already includes three floors in addition to the basement, and an additional story would render the plans illegal.

Other concerns mentioned by Rank regarding the building’s overall height have been addressed by the developers in revised plans. Meanwhile, the ZBA has also issued multiple reports asserting the legitimacy of the construction. Some passages have proven problematic for critics of the project. For example, the ZBA declares that “it is allowable for a project proponent to bring in fill, construct a small, raised garden bed or similar... in order to achieve the proper calculation of average finished grade,” a technique that is not mentioned in the Somerville Zoning Ordinance. The consequence of this statement, Rank says, is that “builders could effectively go as high as they want”

by constructing garden beds along a structure’s perimeter.

Several Aldermen have voiced their opposition to the project including Aldermen At-Large William A. White Jr. and Wilfred Mbah, who emphasizes that the ruling on planter beds would affect much more than just 130 Walnut Street: “Before you know it, all the other developers follow the same path.”

The case has illustrated a disconnect between developers and local residents, in the eyes of some. But what sorts of steps need to be taken in order to prevent disputes like this in the future, and what role should the ZBA play? Justin Rank isn’t sure. “I don’t know what the perfect solution is,” Rank says, “But I think there needs to be more required meetings with the community.” Mbah echoes his sentiment. “I want community development,” he says. “[Developers] should really involve the neighborhood as much as possible.”

The next scheduled ZBA meeting will be held at the VNA on Wednesday, June 6, at 6:00 p.m.

Somerville man violently attacks MBTA employee

On June 4, 2018 at approximately 5:20 a.m. Transit Police officers assigned to the North District received a radio call to respond to the MBTA’s Alewife station for a report of an MBTA employee being assaulted. Upon arrival officers observed several people attempting to restrain a male on the platform, later identified as Charles Mills, 29, of Somerville. Officers intervened and after a brief struggle with Mills were able to place him in restraints.

Witnesses on scene informed the officers of the following: Mills, while seated on a bench, was screaming profanities regarding holding the train. Suddenly and without provocation Mills got up from the bench and violently attacked a female MBTA employee, who was walking past Mills, throwing her to the platform. Mills then proceeded to assault the victim/employee while straddling her. The victim was able to break free and get up from the platform, Mills then began to throw punches at the victim. At this time several employees came to her aid.

Mills was placed into custody and transported to TPD HQ for the arrest booking process.

The victim was transported to a local area hospital for evaluation.

THE WEEK IN CRIME

By Jim Clark

Even the best of hiding places sometimes fail

Somerville Police officers on routine patrol last Wednesday, May 30, observed a vehicle drive through a solid red light at the intersection of McGrath Hwy. and Broadway.

The officers initiated a motor vehicle stop using their cruiser's blue lights and sirens, stopping the vehicle on McGrath Hwy., at the side of the Somerville District Court House.

The officers approached the operator, notifying him of the red light violation and observed there was a female passenger in the front right seat.

The operator was identified as Ludger Veer, of Salem. One of the officers reportedly observed a large amount of drug paraphernalia in plain view inside the vehicle.

The officers then ordered the occupants to step out of the vehicle in order to conduct a search. The female, later identified as Michele Alfieri, of Everett, complied while Veer refused.

Due to Veer's uncooperative behavior, the officers called for additional units, who quickly responded.

Veer was then asked several times to step out of the vehicle but he reportedly did not comply. An officer reached inside the passenger door and took the keys out of the ignition.

Veer was then asked again to step out of the vehicle and still refused to do so. The officers then used minimal force to remove Veer from the vehicle, placing him on the curb away from traffic.

While searching the center console of the vehicle, the officers reportedly found a small tin container, inside which there was a white rocky substance believed to be crack cocaine, based on the officers' combined training and experience. Veer was then placed under arrest and handcuffed.

According to police, Alfieri repeatedly gave false information to the officers regarding her true identity. While searching the vehicle, the officers discovered her true identification, and after conducting a query of her name in the web database they learned that she had four active arrest warrants.

Alfieri was then placed in handcuffs, and while one of the officers performed a search of her person, objects were felt in her bra by her right breast. Alfieri was asked what this was and she reportedly stated it was crack cocaine and heroin.

The officers then removed a bag containing a brown powdery substance and a green plastic container containing a white rocky substance.

Both Veer and Alfieri were transported back to the station by prisoner transport where they were booked in the usual manner.

Veer was booked on charges of failure to stop or yield, possession of a class B drug, and miscellaneous statutory violation.

Alfieri was booked on charges of possession of a class B drug, miscellaneous statutory violation, and possession of a class A drug, and on warrant charges of possession of a class B drug, juror failure to attend, assault and battery on a family or household member, and possession of a class A drug.

million that the city is proposing to contribute to the project was intended to identify and make clear various pieces of the development so that they can be monitored for developer compliance by the city.

Ward 6 Alderman Lance Davis' question about what would happen if the market-rate units were turned into condos led to a lengthy discussion about representation, voting rights and access to common areas and amenities.

Ward 2 Alderman J.T. Scott stated that he could not see a practical way to give voting rights to the residents of the affordable housing units.

The Committee was told that Redgate is not contemplating converting any units to condos but having the option to do so is desirable should market conditions change. The presumption was that should a conversion to condos occur, more than likely there would be a single owner controlling a block of votes for the non-market rate units. All parties stated that they had not contemplated what would happen if units were converted to condos.

It was pointed out that public housing cannot be converted to condos, by law, and that alternate language should be more precise, however the Committee felt that it was not necessary.

The Committee was cautioned against putting restrictions on public housing units, as it was not inconceivable in the future that the state may want to sell them. It was noted that unless the state decided to change something, the units would be protected in perpetuity.

Alderman At-Large Mary Jo Rossetti and Alderman Davis questioned the term "developer" in one section of the agreement that deals with the reconstruction of the roadway and rotary and Alderman Ballantyne explained that the intent was to make it clear that the city would not be responsible for the cost of any road work described in the plan. Alderman Davis proposed a language change to the section by replacing the word "developer" with the names of the development team parties. This was approved unanimously.

Alderman At-Large William A. White Jr. questioned why a time limit to secure the ruling from the State Department of Labor Standards (DLS) on whether the market-rate housing developer Redgate would need to pay prevailing wage wasn't included in one section.

It was suggested that language could be added to allow a period of "within 180 days of the signing of the agreement." The committee was told that Redgate would proceed "at risk" and draw up plans while awaiting the ruling from DLS on prevailing wage.

Alderman Ballantyne commented that the property belongs to the state and it was her understanding that the SHA would not look for another developer if this plan falls through. The Committee was informed that the responsibility for obtaining the ruling falls upon the SHA. Alderman White proposed an amendment to the section that provides a time period of 180 days and places the responsibility upon the SHA, as discussed above, which was approved unanimously.

After even more detailed analysis and amending of the final document, the Home Rule Petition to authorize the Housing Authority to reconstruct the state funded Clarendon Hill Public Housing Project was voted on and approved as amended.

Somerville's Big Gay Dance Party

By Courtney Young

Rainbow banners billowing in the wind, glittered pennants shimmering in the sun, cosmic-colored ice cream glistening in the hands of children, and the vibrant, eccentric stylings of LGBTQ+ identifiers and allies all gather in Union Square on Saturday night in Somerville for the 2nd Annual Big Gay Dance Party. While some attendees have come from other cities, the music draws hundreds of locals toward Union Square, making Saturday night a huge success for Somerville and the LGBTQ+ community.

Families of all identified pronouns, sexualities, and sexual orientations come together to dance with one another; celebrating each other, life, and the freedom to be who we all truly are. Those who do not identify as LGBTQ+ are always encouraged to come and support their community at events like the Big Gay Dance Party, which also serves to educate the public on different ways of familiarizing themselves with the community.

Tabled around the dance floor were organizations like BAGLY (Boston Alliance of Gay Lesbian Bisexual Transgender Youth), the BCCR (Boston Area Rape Crisis Center), the Somerville High School Gender and Sexuality Alliance (GSA), selling student-made pride T-shirts. More organizations included RESPOND, Inc., The Somerville Department of Health and Human Services/LGBTQ commission, and the Cambridge Health Alliance & Massachusetts Alliance for Portuguese Speakers.

These efforts to be visible to the public while offering free and confidential services like counseling, health education, and SID testing all support the growing and diverse community in Somerville, as well as provide substantial support to those who are forming their individual identities.

For someone unfamiliar with the LGBTQ+ community, getting involved and becoming an ally can seem a bit daunting. We ask ourselves, "Are we saying the right things?" "Are we asking the right things?"— but the Big Gay Dance Party did a phenomenal job making this a welcoming, inviting and warm experience for all curious persons to know more about the LGBTQ+ community and what it means to be an ally, or even begin to explore your own identity. For example, "Ask Me My Pronouns" printed on a pin at BAGLY's table suggests that we should never assume one's sexual orientation, gender, or preferred pronoun, but instead, ask someone what they identify as.

Sarah Eustis, a history teacher and GSA club faculty advisor at Somerville High School, stands with her students in the LGBTQ+ community of Somerville High School. "Accessing outside events, like the Big Gay Dance party, is so important for Somerville students," she states. "This issue of accessibility is so pressing for queer students because not all of them feel safe or comfortable sharing their feelings and experiences with their families or those who they live with." Eustis holds a conviction to be out and proud about being queer, and to normalize discussions about questioning gender and sexuality norms.

JP Delgado Galdamez and Sham Payne, two performers who are both very active in the Drag community of Somerville and surrounding areas, set Union Square on fire with two solo performances and one joint act. Leaving the crowd in standing ovation, Galdamez explains what it means to a true queen within the drag community ever since her journey in El Salvador started at 18 years old. Continued on page 20

THE HOUSE AND SENATE: Beacon Hill Roll Call records local senators and representatives' votes on roll calls from the week of May 28-June 1.

A NEIGHBORHOOD CAN BAN TOGETHER AND FORM A DISTRICT WITH TAXING POWER (H 4546)

House 149-2, approved and sent to the Senate a local option bill allowing a city or town to authorize the creation of community benefit districts which would permit owners of contiguous property in a city or town to form a district and impose taxes to pay for additional services, improvements, events and other projects and activities within the district. The districts would be operated by a nonprofit board.

“Community benefit districts are another tool that municipalities can use to help grow their local economies and build good neighborhoods where people can live, work and play,” said the bill’s sponsor Sen. Brendan Crighton (D-Lynn). “This nationally proven model will create opportunities in downtowns, main streets and town centers across the commonwealth.”

“The Massachusetts Smart Growth Alliance believes that community benefit districts can be a game changer,” said Andre Leroux, Executive Director MA Smart Growth Alliance. “Cities and towns in Massachusetts are struggling to maintain basic services for residents and businesses, much less provide the amenities that world-class, walkable places need to thrive. The bill establishes a way for communities to organize a public-private-nonprofit partnership to support their downtown, Main Street, cultural district, historic area or other important place. It’s really about empowering local people to tackle their own challenges.”

Rep. Denise Provost (D-Somerville), one of only two representatives to vote against the bill, said this new option allows certain property owners to create their own fiefdoms and the ability to assess other property owners for purposes determined by themselves. “These are the kind of activities for which local government exists,” said Provost. “Why would we want to have a class of ... private, parallel quasi-governments to perform these functions? Is the democracy, transparency and accountability of local elected government a problem?”

“Homeowners, family-owned businesses and their employees could be negatively impacted by groups who manipulate or misuse the powers created under this bill that privatizes some of local government’s management and expense of tax dollars, community development and community services functions,” said Rep. Michelle DuBois (D-Brockton).

“Block by block they’re coming for taxpayers,” said Chip Ford, executive director of Citizens for Limited Taxation. “Will the Legislature next propose also taxing us at the street level, then backyard by backyard? Today such speculation is not so far-fetched.”

(A “Yes” vote is for the bill. A “No” vote is against it.)

Rep. Christine Barber	Yes
Rep. Mike Connolly	Yes
Rep. Denise Provost	No

HISTORY AND CIVICS IN SCHOOLS (H 4545)

House 151-0, approved a bill that makes changes in the current law that all public schools must provide instruction in American history and civics. Current law requires that the instruction include the Constitution of the United States, the Declaration of Independence and the Bill of Rights; the state Constitution and local history and government; a program on the correct use and display of the U.S. flag; and the importance of participation in the electoral process

The bill adds several topics that are required to be in the instruction including a study of the roles and responsibilities of a citizen in a democracy; the development of skills to access, analyze and evaluate written and digital media as it relates to history and civics; community diversity and historical trends in voter registration; and civic participation relative to disenfranchised voter populations.

“Now more than ever, it is vital to commit to strengthening youth voice, participation and civic engagement,” said Executive Director Arielle Jennings of Generation Citizen’s Massachusetts. “We are delighted to see this commitment fulfilled by the unanimous passing of this bill and to see the commonwealth take such a pivotal step toward becoming the national leader in civic education.”

“At a time when roughly three-quarters of the citizens do not know the three branches of government and more people know who the Three Stooges are, we need to recommit ourselves to civic education,” said Steven Rothstein the executive director of the John F. Kennedy Library Foundation.

The Senate has already approved a different version of the bill and the House version now goes to the Senate for consideration. The major difference in the two bills is that the Senate version makes it mandatory beginning in 2021 for all students to complete one student-led civics project after 8th grade in order to graduate.

(A “Yes” vote is for the bill.)

Rep. Christine Barber	Yes
Rep. Mike Connolly	Yes
Rep. Denise Provost	Yes

FIREFIGHTERS AND CANCER (H 2515)

House 151-0, approved and sent to the Senate a bill designed to help firefighters who are diagnosed with cancer as a result of their job and decide to get treatment with the intention of going back to work. Under current law, a firefighter would have to use his or her accrued sick time to cover the days of the treatment. The bill would change the law and the firefighter would not use the sick time during the treatment. He or she could then use it for follow up care.

“This Legislature is committed to supporting our first responders who put their lives on the line every day for the public,” said Rep. Dan Cahill (D-Lynn), the sponsor of the proposal. “Speaker DeLeo secured bipartisan support to unanimously pass this bill in fulfillment of that commitment.”

(A “Yes” vote is for the bill.)

Rep. Christine Barber	Yes
Rep. Mike Connolly	Yes
Rep. Denise Provost	Yes

LIFE SCIENCES (S 2531)

Senate 33-4, approved a bill that would authorize $462 million in bonds for the Massachusetts Life Sciences Investment Fund with an emphasis on capital grants to increase diversity and opportunity in the Bay State life sciences and biotech industries. The bill is aimed at continued job growth through capital grants that advance education, workforce development, early-stage company growth through spaces dedicated to life sciences companies, advanced bio-manufacturing and scientific innovation.

Provisions include $47 million for an integrated biotechnology and precision manufacturing research and training facility at the University of Massachusetts Amherst; $12 million for grants to community colleges or vocational-technical schools that collaborate with the industry; and an increase from $25 million to $30 million annually in the statutory cap on the Life Sciences Tax Incentive Program.

“The biotech and life sciences industry has been a key component of Massachusetts’ economic progress over the last ten years,” said Sen. Eric Lesser (D-Longmeadow), who led the charge for the bill’s passage. “The investments in this industry that we as a state made ten years ago have helped it flourish here in Massachusetts, and now we can’t afford to lose our national edge. Imagine the lost potential if we allow the next vaccine breakthrough, the next big discovery, the next lifesaving drug, to be developed elsewhere. This bill maintains our leadership in this critical industry and offers us tremendous opportunity to expand economic growth across our state.”

“We truly have a biotech and life sciences supercluster here in Massachusetts, and this bill will ensure we continue to grow and lead the way,” said Sen. Karen Spilka (D-Ashland), chair of the Senate Committee on Ways and Means. “People across the nation and the world depend upon the cutting-edge medical devices, pharmaceuticals and research under development here, and our investments today in innovation, education and workforce training are critical for our continued growth and success.”

“We should not single out a thriving industry for special subsidies,” said Sen. Pat Jehlen (D-Somerville). “Economic development is better served by investing in transportation, affordable housing and education, which benefit all businesses as well as all residents. Tax credits and bond payments are legal commitments in every budget, and crowd out priorities like school aid, human services and adequate pay for preschool educators and home care workers.

“Legislators voted against the bio tech bond bill because it would expand a corporate tax break not necessary for the expansion of the life sciences industry, at a time when the state continues to under-invest in public education, transportation, healthcare, and human services,” said Sen. Jamie Eldridge (D-Acton).

REQUIRE REVIEW FIVE YEARS EARLIER (S 2531)

Senate 15-22, rejected an amendment that would reduce from ten years to five years, from 2028 to 2023, the time period in which a review of the tax breaks in the life sciences bill is required.

Amendment supporters said this would bring the review of the tax breaks in line with the 5-year review timeline recommended by the Tax Expenditure Commission and passed by the Senate in its version of the fiscal 2018 and 2019 budgets.

Amendment opponents offered no arguments. Several senators did not respond to Beacon Hill Roll Call’s request for a comment on why they voted against the amendment.

ALSO UP ON BEACON HILL

SEXUAL ASSAULT BY FRAUD (H 2289) – The House gave initial approval to a bill that makes it a crime for a doctor or other medical professional to commit sexual contact with a patient even when the doctor claims the contact is necessary for a legitimate medical purpose. Under current law, sexual contact by medical professionals represented to the patient as necessary for a legitimate medical purpose cannot be prosecuted, as the patient may be viewed as consenting to it, either explicitly or implicitly. Two courts have ruled that if a person consents to sexual intercourse, even under false pretenses, it is still consent. “The lack of a legal remedy in this area is particularly egregious given that a patient or client may be especially vulnerable,” said the bill’s sponsor Rep. Kate Hogan (D-Stow). “A person in need of treatment, and without medical knowledge, will of necessity rely on the representations made by a professional who is entrusted with caring for them and treating them. If passed, this legislation will enable authorities to prosecute a medical professional who sexually assaults their patient and tries to pass it off as being necessary for medical reasons.”

APPEAL PARKING TICKET FOR "ILLEGAL-

LY” PARKING IN A HANDICAPPED SPACE (H 2425) – The House gave initial approval to a bill that allows people who legally utilize a handicap placard or license plate to challenge, without a fee, a finding that he or she parked illegally in a handicap space. Current law requires the payment of a fee to have the matter heard by the city or town’s parking clerk. Another provision allows an accused person to challenge the parking clerk’s unfavorable decision by appealing directly to the mayor or Board of Selectmen before going to the courts. Under current law, an appeal of the case goes from the parking clerk to the court. “This legislation waives a financial penalty associated with appealing misidentified violators of handicap parking bylaws or ordinances,” said the bill’s sponsor Rep. Alice Peisch (D-Wellesley). “While it is essential to strictly enforce handicap parking laws, it is unfair to require legitimate holders of handicap licenses and placards to pay a fee simply to appeal a wrongly issued ticket.”

TOWING AND IMPOUNDMENT OF VEHICLES (H 1819) – The House gave initial approval to a bill requiring the towing and 12-hour impoundment of a vehicle when an operator is determined to be under the influence of drugs. The bill largely mirrors the current law which impounds vehicles of drunken drivers. Many people under the influence of drugs are given Narcan, an emergency treatment used for the complete or partial reversal of opioid overdose. “With the growing use and effectiveness of Narcan, we are seeing a corresponding increase in situations where individuals who are revived are getting back behind the wheel of their cars very quickly,” said Rep. Michael Day (D-Stoneham). “This legislation will improve public safety by enabling our authorities to impound those cars and prohibiting individuals with severely compromised judgment from further endangering themselves or others.”

HOW LONG WAS LAST WEEK’S SESSION? Beacon Hill Roll Call tracks the length of time that the House and Senate were in session each week. Many legislators say that legislative sessions are only one aspect of the Legislature’s job and that a lot of important work is done outside of the House and Senate chambers. They note that their jobs also involve committee work, research, constituent work and other matters that are important to their districts. Critics say that the Legislature does not meet regularly or long enough to debate and vote in public view on the thousands of pieces of legislation that have been filed. They note that the infrequency and brief length of sessions are misguided and lead to irresponsible late-night sessions and a mad rush to act on dozens of bills in the days immediately preceding the end of an annual session. During the week of May 28-June 1, the House met for a total of six hours and 35 minutes while the Senate met for a total of seven hours and 35 minutes.

Reliable Market

Located in the heart of Union Square, Reliable Market has been offering Japanese and Korean groceries for over 30 years. Sushi grade fish, fresh vegetables, in house made kimchi, various prepared and frozen foods, and endless condiments to make any dish imaginable.

I must say I was very impressed with the selection of craft beers, a whole wall is dedicated to just about any style of beer that rivals that of any liquor store in the area. The sake selection is just as impressive. If you're not sure which you would prefer, smaller bottles are available for sale.

There's also a kitchen in the back of the store where they have pop-ups and offer ramen and other dishes. You can order take out or you have the option to dine in. I opted for the BimBimBap, it came with noodles, rice, seaweed, various other vegetables with Korean chili sauce and topped with a fried egg. Hot, creamy and full of different textures and fresh crisp vegetables. Absolutely delicious!

The second dish was a Korean Ramen, a flavorful broth with noodles, chicken, carrots, mushrooms and a number of other vegetables. A perfect bowl if you're feeling under the weather or anytime!

Check them out on Facebook or Yelp, since they don't have a regular website. They post information about pop-ups, like when Brooklyn Ramen is in town or when they do sake tastings. Here's some additional information about the market, http://www.a2zbisonline.com/reliable_market_en.html

I almost forgot to mention, there is free parking in the lot right behind the building!

Somerville welcomes The Posies' high melodic content

By Blake Maddux

Having been in a band since he was "technically not allowed to enter the venues" that he performed in, Ken Stringfellow says that business and pleasure "have been intertwined for so long, I wouldn't really understand how to unravel them."

Stringfellow and Jon Auer were teenagers when they formed The Posies in Bellingham, Washington. Both were yet to turn 20 when their debut album, Failure, came out in 1988.

Failure was anything but that, and the band released Dear 23, Frosting on the Beater, and Amazing Disgrace on the Geffen Records imprint DSG between 1990 and 1996. In 1992, Ringo Starr covered the Dear 23 track Golden Blunders on his album Time Takes Time. The following year, the Posies recorded the song Going, Going, Gone for the Reality Bites soundtrack, which sold more than two million copies.

In addition to being in The Posies until their initial break up in 1998, Stringfellow and Auer were members of the reunited 1970s cult band Big Star with original members Alex Chilton and Jody Stephens from 1993 until Chilton's death in 2010.

Since 2005, Stringfellow and Auer have released three more Posies albums: Every Kind of Light, Blood/Candy, and Solid States. Stringfellow has also toured and recorded with — among others — R.E.M., and has several solo albums to his credit, while Auer has released several EPs and one LP.

In commemoration of the band's 30th anniversary this year, deluxe reissues of the aforementioned Posies albums from the nineties are scheduled for release between June and October. Each will be available as a double CD and LP in what Stringfellow calls "exhaustive versions."

The band is raising the money for licensing fees with the help of a PledgeMusic drive.

The Posies' 30th anniversary tour — which includes the Frosting on the Beater rhythm section of Dave Fox (bass) and Mike Musburger (drums) — stops at ONCE on Friday, June 15. Stringfellow spoke to The Somerville

Data Download with Mayor Joseph A. Curtatone

By Joseph A. Curtatone
Taking a closer look at notable city data—and interesting numbers.

223 inspections and 99 health license applications in 2017: How do you know a pound is really a pound at the store and a gallon is really a gallon at the gas station? The Weights and Measures Division of the City’s Inspectional Services Department is responsible for enforcing the accuracy requirements and other standards relating to weighing and measuring devices used in the sale of food, fuels, and other products. The work they do is instrumental in protecting consumers whether they take a taxi, fill up their gas tank, or purchase items that need scanning at a grocery store. In 2017, Weights and Measures completed a total of 223 inspections of taxi meters, oil trucks, gas stations, and businesses with scales. In addition, they reviewed 99 health license applications for establishments with scales or measuring devices. The division is preparing to begin price verification inspections in September to meet state consumer and merchant protection standards, and there are more than 200 retail stores in Somerville that will require inspection. Each of those inspections requires verifying the listed price to the register/scanner price of 100 items in each store.

$1.7 million grant for Lead Paint Safe Somerville Program: One of the priorities for this year’s affordable housing agenda is the launch of the Lead Paint Safe Somerville Program. This program aims to expand the number of lead-free units ready for families seeking housing by providing no-interest, forgivable loans for lead paint removal. The Housing Division of the Office of Strategic Planning and Community Development secured a federal grant of $1.7 Million from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development for the program. With these funds, our goal is to remove lead paint, which is a hazard especially to young children, from 90 Somerville housing units by 2021. Residents and property owners are invited to learn more at the Lead Paint Safe Somerville Information Session Thursday, June 14, 2018, at the East Somerville Public Library, 115 Broadway. Refreshments will be provided. Doors open at 6:30 p.m. and the presentation begins at 7 p.m.

14 seconds average queue time for 311 calls: The City’s Constituent Services Department hears from you about day-to-day services and issues like trash pickup, permit requests, construction updates, and parking questions – and they take all of those snow-related requests each winter. Despite having one of the smallest constituent service centers in the country, Somerville 311 answers 87 percent of constituent calls within their goal of 20 seconds. However, average queue times are even lower than that. Callers only wait an average of 14 seconds before speaking to a 311 representative and only 3 percent of calls are abandoned before speaking to a representative. Customer service can be a challenging job. The next time you call 311, if you appreciate the quick and professional service, please don’t hesitate to thank this hard-working crew.

Second most snow requests on record: Now that we’re in the midst of some warmer weather with summer on the horizon, it is finally safe to talk about some snow data without jinxing ourselves. There’s no question that this winter was challenging, and the numbers show that as well. Winter 2018 resulted in 1,466 snow-related requests, which is the second most on record (only behind winter 2015) since 311 began tracking. January 2018 was the second busiest month on record with 1,029 snow-related requests. There were some other notable takeaways from this winter as well. The median number of days to complete a snow removal request was two days, which was consistent with the previous two years. DPW spent just under $3 Million on snow removal this winter, about $1.7 million over budget. The largest expense was plowing, at just over $1 million or 36 percent of the total.

Data-based decision making is at the core of how the City of Somerville develops policy and sets priorities. Every day we check the latest 311 stats, and throughout the week we meet for in-depth review of departmental data and city trends. The Data Download column shares some of the data we’ve been reviewing recently, as well as interesting updates. To see more Somerville Data, visit the online Somerville Data Farm at www.somerville-ma.gov/datafarm.

Dear Editor,

I work at 3L Place, a Teele Square based program for adults with autism and other developmental disabilities. Our Members have been learning about local government and the importance of civic engagement.

I am writing to thank Mayor Curtatone and his staff for rolling out the red carpet for our visit to City Hall last week. The Mayor met privately with 3L Place Members in his office for half an hour and arranged a tour of City Hall for us. As a Special Educator for more than 20 years, I was deeply touched by Mayor Curtatone’s warmth, engagement and hospitality with each of our Members. He is a very busy man, but while we were with him he was 100% focused on us. He taught us a great deal about Somerville’s history and we learned firsthand why the voters of Somerville keep reelecting him as Mayor!

Sincerely,
Michael Bowman

Community Path repairs closure

The City of Somerville’s Engineering Department announced last week that a portion of the Community Path, between Buena Vista Rd. and the Cambridge line, will undergo much-anticipated repairs to the drainage system and to a retaining wall to address recurring flooding issues and to improve safety along the path.

Bicycle and pedestrian traffic will be detoured for approximately three months, beginning the week of June 11, as crews excavate in this area. Detour routes can be found at www.somervillema.gov/CommunityPathClosure and temporary signage will be posted along this section of the path.

In total, the project is expected to last through early September, and the path will be repaved to a final condition in November, though an interim pavement layer will be installed at the completion of the project for the duration of the winter. The project will include replacement of catch basins as well as installation of new sections of drain pipe along this section of the Path.

Additionally, the retaining wall in this area will be upgraded during construction. Work hours for this project will be Monday through Friday, 7 a.m. until approximately 4 p.m., unless otherwise noted. While work is being conducted to the retaining wall on the south side of the path, contractors do not anticipate needing access to private properties, though all abutters will be notified prior to the start of work in November.

If you have questions about impacts to your property, contact the Somerville Engineering Department at 617-625-6600 ext. 5400. For more information and updates about this project, visit www.somervillema.gov/CommunityPathClosure.

SIGNS OF THE TIMES

Illustrated by Jim Clark

Love them or hate them, the fundraiser road races do a lot of good for local worthy causes.

Our View Of The Times

While not quite as popular among some city residents as others, the many 5K style foot races that take place throughout the years bear one remarkable similarities: they all contribute much needed funds to many worthwhile causes and charitable institutions in the area.

Last Sunday's Just One Run Fund-raiser in Memory of Anthony D. Gi-urleo ran in support of the fine work of the The Ryan Harrington Foundation, whose stated mission is strengthening community through financial support of youth organizations, charitable efforts to help those in need (such as food and clothing drives), and material support for young men and women struggling with substance abuse disorder.

Other road races taking place annually raise funds for youth activities, abuse prevention organizations, and support for the homeless.

Of course, many of those participating in these events are also in it for the fun and the personal challenge of just being a part of it. Whatever the reason one joins in, there is also the satisfaction of knowing that their efforts are well rewarded by the fact that they are also making a difference in the community.

So before complaining that there is too much of this going on, consider the possibility that maybe it's just about right. Or maybe even not quite enough. Most of us take pride in our love of sports and athleticism, not to mention our community.

the nose bleed section of the convention hall. Meanwhile, congratulations to Somerville's own native Bob Masse, who will be on the ballot this September as the Democratic Nominee for Governor. And, of course, a local Somerville person for statewide office is always a great thing.

We hear that the affordable housing issue up at Clarendon Hill – a proposed joint venture between Somerville Community Corp., the Somerville Housing Authority and a private developer – was recently passed by the Board of Aldermen 8 to 3. Funny, in watching the aldermen, there was Ward 1 Alderman Matt McLaughlin, who ran on “affordable Housing” here in the city, voting NO on the proposal. Ward 2 Alderman JT Scott and Ward 4 Alderman Jessie Clingan also voted against it, and all three ran on affordable housing. Imagine that. Maybe they didn't understand that the project was a 40B project? A proposed 216 units to be built on the current North and Alewife public housing site with half (108) going as affordable housing units. Or maybe they think the developer was making big money on the project? Just saying!

Happy birthday this week to several locals: Happy birthday to a great lady who is well known around the city, Muriel White (Berry). We hope she has a great birthday. Happy birthday to Michael Albano, who grew up in East Somerville. He has a real estate school and office here as well. Mike is a great guy and we hope he has a great birthday. Happy birthday Larry Fidalgo, known here in Somerville as Larry the Floor Guy. Happy birthday to another great guy, who is very popular in Medford and has many friends here in Somerville, Paul Camuso is celebrating this week. Paul is a former city councilor in Medford, and retired – hopefully only temporarily from politics. Former Somerville guy Frank LoBuono is celebrating with his family this week in FLA, his new home. We hope Frank has a great birthday. Happy birthday to Brendan Mansfield, who lives in the Davis Square area. We hope Brendan has a great birthday. Happy birthday to a good guy over in Cambridge, Keith MacKinnon, the historian at the Masonic Building. To an old friend, Linda Rocco, over in Medford, we wish her a happy birthday. Finally, to one of Somerville's smartest Aldermen, Bill White, who loves Somerville and has served on the Board now for many years with honor and integrity. We hope he has a great birthday. Happy birthday as well to all the others we may have missed and, yes, there are a few more out there. We sincerely wish them the very best of birthdays.

Finally, after two years in and out of MGH, former Somerville lifelong resident and former alderman Charlie Chisholm finally got out to dinner for the first time in two years. Charlie is on the mend and we are happy for him. It's been a huge ordeal.

Patti Norton is back home working on getting stronger so that she might take that triple by-pass. She is doing well. Also home is Ross Blouin. He says he feels great. He's started his dialysis this past week and is very optimistic.

We're told that Mayor Joe Curtatone is presenting next year's budget to the Board of Aldermen Wednesday night. Make sure you watch it on cable so you'll hear who's getting what raise and who is getting a job that is being created for them. It's your money, but they get to spend it. So watch it and then make sure you are voting next year in city election. Curious to see how this Board of Aldermen will react to the budget. Last year's budget was 216K million. We predict it's going to be substantially more this year (not hard to predict, since every year it's more). Make sure you watch the questions these aldermen pose during the process. We hope there are not too many raises for department heads, but rather a substantial raise for those hard workers at DPW and all the other union members throughout the city that haven't had a raise or CONTRACT in years.

The vote to pass the proposed TRANSFER FEE/TAX was passed by all the alderman. The mayor signed it and it is on its way to the State House, were many homeowners hope it fails. Funny how those that want to spend other's money call it a fee and not what it really is – a tax. We heard that comment several times this past week.

On Sunday, June 10, from 12:00 to 3:00 p.m., Somerville will celebrate the environmental, economic and educational benefits of repairing the objects we own instead of discarding and replacing them for the fourth time. Sponsored by the Somerville Arts Council's Arts Union and organized by the Somerville Tool Library, the Fixer

Fair invites talented amateur and professional repair people to bring their skills and talents out to Union Square. Attendees can bring their broken objects to the Fair and use our tools, supplies and skilled volunteers to try and fix them. In our disposable culture we’re constantly discouraged from repairing our household items and encouraged to discard them and buy new. The neighborhood repair shop has all but disappeared. For many items, the environmental cost of producing a replacement is far greater than anything that can be recovered by recycling. By pooling our skills and resources to repair our stuff, we save our stuff from going filling up the landfills, we save money and we encourage self-sufficiency, community building and reliant communities. In addition to a general fixit area, Fixer Fair will have specific areas devoted to bike repair, textile repair, soldering and more. Volunteer fixers are welcome to stop by and share their skills and experience. The Somerville Tool Library will be on hand to accept tool donations and sign up new members. Parts and Crafts will show kids how to take apart broken items and see what makes them work and Girls Rock Camp will teach everyone to solder. This event is free and open to the public.

Times by phone while waiting for his flight to Europe out of Logan Airport.

The Somerville Times: Your indicated in your email that you were in Canton, MA. What brought you there?

Ken Stringfellow: I am producing an album for the artist Richie Parsons. He was in Unnatural Axe and was there in the first wave of real punk bands from Boston. We did a record already together a couple of years ago. He's got a rock 'n' roll spirit, for sure, that's the centerpiece for a lot of his music, but he allows me to take him in more directions, and it's fun for him to see what directions we can get out of his songs. We just tracked 12 songs with, for example, Malcolm Travis, who was the drummer in Sugar and played in Human Sexual Response as well.

TST: What do the forthcoming Posies reissues include?

KS: For each album, it's a double CD. The album program takes up a portion of one CD, and we've filled up that disc with bonus material, and then the entire second disc is bonus material. I would say about 85% of the bonus material has never been released in any form. We kept finding more and more stuff, alternate versions and a lot of full-on songs. We put out this four-disc box set [At Least, At Last] in 2000, and even that didn't cover everything that's out there.

TST: The Posies' album sales never won recognition from the RIAA, but did you at least get a platinum disc for contributing to the Reality Bites soundtrack?

KS: Oh yeah, yeah. That actually was very useful at that time, because that was not part of our deal with our label. They gave us a pass on that one – that came out on RCA. I made significant five-figure amounts of royalties for years just from that album. From the one song.

TST: How did you and Jon become members of the reunited Big Star with Alex Chilton and Jody Stephens?

KS: The idea of Alex playing Big Star music had been bandied about and tried many times by many people, but Alex was never into it. And Jody was getting kind of comfortable with the fact that he could just, you know, pass the question on to Alex, get the "No," and then politely decline the offer. He had gotten used to that fact. Then one day Alex said, "Yeah, sure. Why not? I've got nothing better to do."

[Big Star guitarist] Chris Bell had long been dead and [Big Star bassist] Andy Hummel wasn't interested, so then they're like, Well, who could do it? All the known significant Big Star fans, like [Paul] Westerberg, Mike Mills from R.E.M., Matthew Sweet, they were talking to all these people about trying to do it and they all declined for various reasons. R.E.M. in 1993 had too much shit going on, and Westerberg and Matthew Sweet both were like, I'm not gonna be the guy that gets up on stage and fucks up my favorite band. And they asked Chris Stamey [of The dB's] to do it, and for some reason he didn't do it either. I've never really understood why.

Meanwhile, underneath all of this, there's Jon and I lobbying heavily – you know, just begging – to be included in this. And Jody, actually, from the get-go suggested, "You know, these guys in The Posies, they did this single and it sounds just like Big Star. I think they should do it." And we weren't popular enough. We hadn't released Frosting on the Beater yet. They wanted marquee-value names to help make this a big news item.

In the end, as other people said no, I just kept on it. I found that guy from the radio station in Missouri who was one of the two hosts of the show. I basically tackled him at South by Southwest, and said like, "I will do this. You have no option but me. I will be doing this. I will make your life miserable until I am this guy." With Jody's already pushing for it and my persistence, they relented and we got the gig. ["That guy" was Jeff Breeze, a University of Missouri student who worked at the campus radio station, KCOU. He is now the host of Pipeline! on WMBR. "The show" was the University of Missouri's annual Spring-Fest, at which Big Star performed its first reunion show.]

TST: What was the first record that you ever given or bought with your own money?

KS: The first record I ever bought with my own money was ELO's album Discovery. 1979 or whatever. My mom had given me the Saturday Night Fever soundtrack. That was kind of my record. Star Wars, when it came out in 1977, my parents gave me that. They kind of gave me stuff, but the ELO one is significant because I chose it. And my mom wasn't happy. She was like, "Why are you spending your money on records?"

TST: Did the album have a permanent musical impact on you?

KS: It's a very melodic band, so yeah. It's hard for me to make music that doesn't have a high-melodic content. It's possible. I can force myself to do it, but my love of a great melody is just hard for me to suppress.

The Posies with Scarlet Sails. Friday, June 15 (doors at 8, show at 9). ONCE Ballroom, 156 Highland Ave.

good, flavorful food, but we also need a beautiful tablecloth, special dishes. How we serve the food means a lot."

Guests were offered a selection of three dishes from a buffet of traditional Brazilian cuisine, while festive music played in the background. Bowls arrived with a bed of lettuce and a salad of black-eyed peas, accented with notes of vinegar and onion. Diners also enjoyed flaky empadas, or chicken pies, as well as crusty pao de queijo, or rolls of cheese bread. The kitchen doled out beef croquettes, codfish croquettes mixed with potato, and succulent chicken croquettes, inflected with herbs. A mélange of vegetables, including green beans, carrots, broccoli, and zucchini perfectly complemented the meat options, while a choice of passion fruit, guava, or cashew juice provided a refreshing finish.

Nibble Kitchen will be the operating restaurant of the Nibble program, which grew out of the Somerville Arts Council's ArtsUnion initiative, founded in 2005. The project promotes cultural exchange and supports immigrant communities through its cooking classes, pop up restaurants, market tours, and food festivals. In 2015, Nibble launched NEP, encouraging economic development while assisting immigrants in their pursuit of their business ventures and culinary dreams. The program currently works with 12 entrepreneurs hailing from countries such as Venezuela, India, Mexico, and Panama.

The new kitchen, which will rotate gastronomy from different cultures, will contribute to Union Square's rich and ethnically encompassing restaurant scene, said Somerville Arts Council's cultural director Rachel Strutt.

"Union Square has always had a tremendously diverse food landscape, and I think that's worth preserving," said Strutt. "It's exciting that people can go there and get authentic international food that they wouldn't find anywhere else, Ethiopian wats one day, Mexican mole another day, then one day Brazilian street food. ...Food is a portal to cultural expression; it allows people to share stories about where they're from and promotes cultural interchange."

Middle: Guests had an option of choosing from various meat and vegetable dishes, while receiving a complementary juice drink. Somerville's Big Gay Dance Party

"My first queer community was a LGBTQ group at a non-catholic Christian church," she states. "Since then, I have learned that drag is truly about being the best version of yourself. People have the idea about queens being catty and shady, [which can sometimes be true], but when it comes to supporting each other, drag is truly a sisterhood." As an Outreach and Education Associate for The Network/La Red, a local non-profit that supports LGBTQ/T survivors of partner abuse, Galdamez appreciates that drag allows for community building with one another, as well as giving drag performers a platform to support members of our communities. As in any community, these outlets are essential for building a network of support.

"What makes Somerville unique is the amount of support we have here in the LGBTQ+ community, and how much we are encouraged to come out and celebrate our individuality," says A. James, a queer who does not yet know what they feel most comfortable identifying as. "It's been a journey for me, but living in Somerville has made it one of love, strength, and even excitement."

Although not as socially entertaining as the Big Gay Dance Party, searching and inquiring about the organizations listed above can inform you on how to get involved and support your local community as either an ally or a LGBTQ+ identifier.

Fifty on the Floodplain

That’s not me you see on a hot July morning just shy of fifty on what should be a work day walking by the B.U. Bridge.

Five years ago there was soccer duty, looking for a rabbit with the boy, living in a book everyone could understand.

Today my purpose is undecipherable
but clearly I’m here corporal and blowsy as the lilies, that visible.

This is not my street anymore, only traffic lights mark my corner-red, green, then all flat water.
I’m scrambling for higher ground.

It’s crowded up here.
We’re all naked except for our life vests, what’s left?
Only what we can carry toward the shifting horizon.

'Nevertheless, She Persisted'

Somerville writer Ari Samuel Alkalay Appel contributes this review to Off the Shelf:

Nevertheless, She Persisted
By Susan Wood
Illustrated by Sarah Green
Abrams Books for Young Readers, New York

Often, what we choose to tell children is a better representation of the state which we are in than what we we say to adults. Susan Wood and Sarah Green have given us a gem that shines brightly, a statement about a woman who defines what this planet is missing.

With a title reminiscent of The Little Engine That Could, Nevertheless, She Persisted is a beautifully written and illustrated portrait of a fiery senator's humble upbringing, her life as a mother and wife, and her successful career. Wood and Green have created a tool for teaching young children that anything is possible and especially that being a woman should never prevent someone from fulfilling her dreams.

The journey of the first female senator from Massachusetts is filled with trials: financial instability throughout Warren's youth, dismissal from her university program due to her status as a young mother, unemployment after law school, and the perpetual quest for balance between family life and professional endeavors. Warren does not heroically trounce these challenges but rather navigates them with grace by adhering to the principle of persistence.

If every piece of children's literature has a moral, the moral of Nevertheless, She Persisted is to always be persistent. It is important to mind that the word "persistence" also connotes difficulty. What I like most about the book is that it does not guard young readers from the realities of middle-class life in America. In exploring the theme of persistence, it also probes the specter of erasure for being a woman or for being poor. The threat of losing one's identity is always present, yet the story gives young readers a simple guiding principle: always, always persist. Persist at what you believe in, fight with your words, and people will listen.

The story is human and immediate, though sometimes clumsy in returning to its central theme. For example, in telling of Warren's high school debate club, Wood states that Warren learned about "getting battered, but not beaten" as she made her way to the state championship. This language seems out of place for a high school debate club. Even though a children's book should have a consistent moral, to assume that a child cannot understand specific language in a variety of situations underestimates his or her creativity and intelligence.

Despite this weakness, Nevertheless, She Persisted is full of strengths. One illustration shows a gated manor with a private pond near four shacks, juxtaposing the wealth of one family with the poverty of four others. This disparity is what Warren wants us to notice. The text discusses income inequality due to corporate greed and Warren's work against it as a law professor. Three blue birds fly through the foreground of the illustration, freer than the people below. Fortunately, Warren is someone with something to say about this.

Nevertheless, She Persisted paints Warren as a fighter singularly motivated by the benefit of all, inspired by her humble upbringings to create a better world. Nevertheless, She Persisted gives children a heroine and reinforces that with a little help from one's family, persistence is all every child needs.
